The Department of American Studies offers a dual bachelor of arts and master of arts degree program. The programs allow students to take 6 graduate credits as part of their undergraduate degree. Decreasing the number of credits normally required for the master’s degree allows students to complete the program in less time and at a lower cost.

Students interested in the dual degree program should consult the Department of American Studies’ master of arts advisor by the middle of their junior year. For more information visit the program website.
