MINOR IN DANCE

GW’s Dance program trains students to tell stories through movement. Internationally acclaimed instructors mentor and support artistic growth and development. With an emphasis on technique, the dance curriculum develops the physical strength of our dancers while building confidence as choreographers. The curriculum focus is modern, postmodern and contemporary dance techniques, emphasizing experimentation through creative process. Courses are allied with the body of knowledge found in somatic theories. The program has a global, interdisciplinary community located in the heart of Washington, DC, where it works with national and internationally known guest artists through classes and rehearsals. Students establish professional connections to a variety of geographies and heritages with countless performative opportunities both in and out of the studio. The program is designed to make it easy for students to pursue two minors, which affords exciting cross discipline studies, providing well-rounded graduates the tools to achieve their goals. Dance program graduates are prepared for a variety of professional careers, including as performers, directors, set designers, production assistants, and teachers.
