WOMEN'S, GENDER, AND SEXUALITY STUDIES

Part of the Columbian College of Arts and Sciences’ arts and humanities programs, the Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies program examines women’s lives, literature, histories, and cultures through the lens of feminist theory and practice, establishing gender and sexuality as fundamental categories of analysis. Gender and sexuality are examined as they intersect with race, class, nationality, and ethnicity. The program strengthens a student’s ability to gain knowledge of contemporary feminist theories and research methods, and provides interdisciplinary perspectives from which to study the diversity of the human experience. Classroom study is supplemented by the diverse resources of the nation’s capital.
