UNIVERSITY COURSES (UNIV)

Explanation of Course Numbers

- Courses in the 1000s are primarily introductory undergraduate courses
- Those in the 2000s to 4000s are upper-division undergraduate courses that can also be taken for graduate credit with permission and additional work
- Those in the 6000s and 8000s are for master’s, doctoral, and professional-level students
- The 6000s are open to advanced undergraduate students with approval of the instructor and the dean or advising office

UNIV 1005. Social Interactions. 3 credits
This interdisciplinary course uses the methods of inquiry and analysis from the social science disciplines in order to interrogate key issues of political behavior, cultural formation, human interaction and communication, as well as historical change. While specific topics will vary each semester, in all cases this course will require that students engage scholarly literature on the topic, conduct guided research on the topic, and write several papers.

UNIV 1006. Questions of Culture. 3 credits
This interdisciplinary course uses the methods of inquiry and analysis from the disciplines of the arts and humanities in order to interrogate key issues of artistic and symbolic expression, religious beliefs, philosophy, and historical change. While specific topics will vary each semester, in all cases this course will require that students engage scholarly literature on the topic, conduct guided research on the topic, and write several papers.