The master of arts in education and human development in the field of curriculum and instruction prepares teachers and other educational personnel for increased responsibilities in the planning, implementation, research, and evaluation of curriculum and instruction. The minimum 30-credit program includes study in curriculum development, research and evaluation of instructional practice, teacher education, work with special populations, and school policy and leadership. Students select from one of the following program specialty concentrations:

- Concentration in elementary education (http://bulletin.gwu.edu/education-human-development/masters-program/education-human-development-curriculum-instruction/elementary-education/)
- Concentration in interdisciplinary studies of literacy and reading education (http://bulletin.gwu.edu/education-human-development/masters-program/education-human-development-curriculum-instruction/literacy-reading-education/)
- Concentration in Jewish education (http://bulletin.gwu.edu/education-human-development/masters-program/education-human-development-curriculum-instruction/jewish-education/)

Visit the program website (https://gsehd.gwu.edu/programs/masters-curriculum-and-instruction/) for additional information.