The combined master of arts in education and human development in the field of international education (http://bulletin.gwu.edu/education-human-development/masters-program/education-human-development-international-education) and graduate certificate in incorporating international perspectives in education (http://bulletin.gwu.edu/education-human-development/certificate/incorporating-international-perspectives) (IIPE) program is designed for individuals who are entering or advancing in positions associated with training, education, adult learning, and development activities in diverse settings that require international understanding. Students acquire knowledge of other countries and cultures, using the education system as a means of interpreting and translating knowledge across cultures, and analysis of the formal and non-formal school systems as they reflect history, culture, development, values, contemporary concerns, and future trends. In addition, students acquire tools, methods, and habits of analysis that enable them to play a variety of roles as leaders and change agents. The addition of the IIPE certificate is designed to allow students to pursue individual interests while providing a foundation in internationalization as it relates to school systems and the development of curriculum in K-12 settings.

Specific admission requirements are shown on the Graduate Program Finder (http://www.gwu.edu/all-graduate-programs).
