The George Washington University offers financial assistance to all eligible students from a variety of resources. In addition to GW assistance, the University participates in federal student aid programs from the U.S. Department of Education and student financial assistance programs from other U.S. government agencies such as the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs and the U.S. Department of Defense. Some states offer student financial assistance for undergraduate enrollment at GW.

In general, consideration for student financial assistance is restricted to students in good academic standing at the University who meet minimum grade-point average and satisfactory academic progress requirements for specific awards and not financially encumbered by any other University office. Failure to meet and maintain satisfactory academic progress requirements may result in rescinding of awards.

GW reserves the right to request documentation to determine aid eligibility. Documents submitted as part of the aid application become the property of the University and cannot be returned. Such documents are protected under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), as amended. Federal regulation requires the University to report cases of suspected fraud or misrepresentation to appropriate federal, state, and local authorities.

Gift aid, such as grants, scholarships, fellowships, is student financial assistance not required to be repaid. Gift aid is taxable under federal regulation to the extent that it exceeds the allowable costs of tuition, fees, and required books and supplies, or is dedicated to other costs such as room and board. Federal grants may be taxable if, together with other gift aid, they exceed allowable costs. For complete information on IRS rules regarding educational costs, see IRS Publication 970, Tax Benefits for Education.

Self-help aid is aid that students undertake on their own behalf, either in the form of earnings via the Federal Work-Study program or through borrowing. Loans must be repaid.

Eligibility for student aid is processed under cost of attendance budgets for various categories of students, per federal statutory requirements. Refer to the policy on cost of attendance budgets (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/cost-of-attendance) for details. A complete student aid package cannot exceed a student’s cost of attendance budget. GW will review and potentially adjust awards for students receiving student financial assistance from more than one source. Receipt of student financial assistance from multiple sources cannot exceed tuition charges. If institutional aid is involved, adjustments will be made.

Non-degree and certificate programs that are approved for federal student aid programs must provide “gainful employment” disclosures under federal regulation. Such disclosure are found on the respective academic programs’ website. Continued Title IV certification for these programs are reviewed annually.

For complete information on student financial assistance at GW, visit the Office of Student Financial Assistance website (http://financialaid.gwu.edu).

Information in this section of the Bulletin is accurate as of the date of its publication and is subject to change based on changes in federal and/or state statute, regulation, policies and procedures (which may, in turn, necessitate changes to application procedures and policies). The University reserves the right to change student financial assistance policies.

UNDERGRADUATE

Undergraduate Financial Aid

All freshmen automatically are considered for the merit-based Presidential Academic Scholarship, which is awarded to the most competitive applicants in the applicant pool. Complete information on merit-based awards (awards based on academic criteria) are available on the website of the Office of Undergraduate Admissions (http://undergraduate.admissions.gwu.edu/scholarships).

The Office of Student Financial Assistance (http://financialaid.gwu.edu) (OSFA) awards various need-based GW institutional financial aid funds: The largest fund awarded is the University and Alumni Award (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/university-and-alumni-award). In addition, the Office awards University Scholarships (see the section below) and the One-Year Award (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/one-year-award).

The following scholarships programs are also available:

* The J.B. and Maurice C. Shapiro Scholarship to the University of Oxford is awarded each spring to a graduating senior or recent graduate through a competitive process upon the nominee’s acceptance to Oxford. To be eligible, applicants must have applied for the Rhodes or British Marshall Scholarships. All of these competitions require high academic standing, evidence of leadership, and dedication to the larger society through community service. The Shapiro Scholarship provides for up to two years of study at Oxford, equivalent to the Rhodes Scholarship. The J.B. and Maurice C. Shapiro Endowment funds two scholarships per year—one new and one renewal.

* The Bender Scholarship to the University of Cambridge is funded by an endowment, the Bender Scholarship Fund. The Bender Scholarship is open for competition every other year. Graduating seniors, recent graduates, and third-year law students who participated in the Rhodes and/or British Marshall competitions are eligible for the Bender Scholarship. The endowed scholarship provides for up to two years of study at... the University of Cambridge, equivalent to the British Marshall Scholarship. The Bender Scholarship criteria are high academic achievement, evidence of leadership skills or potential, and community service.

The Pembroke/CW Program. GW has a special relationship with Pembroke College in Oxford, whereby up to six GW juniors are placed at the College for one year and enrolled as fully matriculated students of the University of Oxford. These placements are determined in an annual competition that takes place at GW in the fall. The committee evaluating candidates forwards the finalists’ applications to Pembroke College, and Pembroke makes the final decision on placements. Many GW students have spent a year at Oxford in this program.

Need-Based Financial Aid

All freshman and transfer students are required to file both the College Scholarship Service PROFILE (https://student.collegeboard.org/css-financial-aid-profile)—which is not an application for funds, but provides a need analysis that many schools use to award its own funds—and the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (https://fafsa.ed.gov) (FAFSA), which is the application for federal student aid programs (and which many states use as application for their own funds). Applicants must designate GW as recipient of their need analysis data. All applicants must also provide to GW directly copies of their signed federal income tax returns and W-2 Forms for the current tax year for the student and the student’s parents (if a dependent student). Non-custodial parents are also required to provide disclosures. See policies on Parental Contribution for Dependent Students (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/policy-parental-contribution-dependent-students).

Complete application information is available on the OSFA website (http://financialaid.gwu.edu) under the section titled “Getting Assistance.”

Application deadlines depend on whether a new undergraduate or continuing undergraduate student. See the OSFA website (http://financialaid.gwu.edu) for complete details on respective application deadlines (https://financialaid.gwu.edu/deadlines).

Students must reapply for any need-based aid, including need-based scholarships, and must meet/maintain satisfactory academic progress requirements per specific student aid program requirements.

University Scholarships

Full and partial tuition scholarships begin in the fall semester and may be renewed through the senior year, provided that the recipient reappplies by the published deadlines, maintains a B- average or better, completes 12 credits per semester, and continues to demonstrate financial need. All applicants for need-based aid are considered for these awards.

Federal Student Aid Programs

Federal Direct Stafford Loans

Federal Direct Stafford Loans are student loans from the U.S. Department of Education in which the student is the borrower. Annual loan limits are as follows:

Dependent undergraduates (most students under the age of 24):

- $5,500 as freshmen (No more than $3,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans)
- $6,500 as sophomores (No more than $4,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans)
• $7,500 as junior and seniors (No more than $5,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans)

Independent undergraduates (students 24 years or age and older) and dependent students whose parents are unable to borrow under the Federal Direct PLUS Loan program:

• $9,500 as freshmen (No more than $3,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans)
• $10,500 as sophomores No more than $4,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans)
• $12,500 as juniors and seniors (No more than $5,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans)

• For dependent students (except student whose parents are unable to borrow under the Federal Direct PLUS Loan program), the subsidized and unsubsidized aggregate loan limit is $31,000, with no more than $23,000 of this amount being subsidized loans.
• Independent students (and dependent undergraduate students whose parents are unable to obtain PLUS Loans) – the undergraduate aggregate loan limit is $57,500, and no more than $23,000 of this amount may be in subsidized loans.

For students who receive subsidized Stafford loans as part of their need-based financial aid award, the government pays the interest while they are enrolled in school at least half time and for six months after they leave school. Students ineligible, or only partly eligible, for subsidized funds may apply for an unsubsidized Stafford Loan up to the same limits to cover their family contribution. Terms and conditions are the same, except that the student borrower is responsible for all interest that accrues on the unsubsidized loan from the date it is disbursed; deferments are available. Independent students (and students whose parents are denied a PLUS loan) are eligible to borrow additional unsubsidized Stafford funds of $4,000 as freshmen and sophomores and $5,000 as juniors and seniors.

There are fees associated with both subsidized and unsubsidized Stafford loans. Interest rates and fees are set on an annual basis by federal statute, usually by June 1 and taking effect on July 1 through the following June 30. See the OSFA’s “Summary of Loan Details (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/loans)” chart or the U.S. Department of Education’s Federal Student Aid (https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/types/loans/interest-rates) website for up-to-date information on interest rates and associated loan fees.

Federal Direct PLUS Loans
The Federal Direct PLUS Loan is a government-sponsored, credit-based, fixed-rate loan that can be used to supplement the student's Federal Direct Stafford Loan or to help with their family contribution. The U.S. Department of Education is the lender. Each academic year, parents without an adverse credit history may apply for a Federal Direct PLUS loan up to the cost of education, minus financial aid, for each dependent child attending college at least half-time. Loan repayment begins within 60 days of the last disbursement and the maximum repayment term is ten years.

Origination fees are deducted from loan proceeds prior to disbursement. Families who intend to use loan funds for payment of University charges at time of registration should submit a loan application and all supporting documents to OSFA no later than May 1 for the fall semester, October 1 for the spring semester, and March 1 for summer sessions. See the OSFA website (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/federal-direct-parent-plus-loan) for details and application procedures. See also The U.S. Department of Education’s information on Federal Direct PLUS Loans (https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/types/loans/plus).

*Federal Perkins Loans Please note: The Federal Perkins Loan program is scheduled to expire on 09-30-2017

Federal Perkins Loans (https://financialaid.gwu.edu/federal-perkins-loan) are loans made to students with “exceptional financial need,” as required by federal statute, based on availability of funds to lend from collections of past loans made. The interest rate is 5% fixed and there is a ten-year repayment period. The annual loan limit for Federal Perkins Loan is $5,500 per year and the lifetime limits for Perkins are $27,500 for undergraduates and $60,000 for combined undergraduate and graduate studies. Loan funds awarded are limited based on availability of funds to lend.

Private Education Loans
Private lenders provide additional loan options to qualified students. These loans offer varying interest rates and repayment options. Such loans allow the student to borrow up to 100% of GW’s annual undergraduate cost of attendance less any current financial assistance. They typically have variable rates, rates within rate tiers according to credit worthiness, and application fees.

Private education loans must be reported to OSFA to be considered as a resource against federal student aid eligibility, per federal regulation.

Students are strongly advised to consider federal student loans before alternative loans due to the former’s generally more favorable interest rates, fees, and repayment options. Consider reviewing the OSFA Private Student Loan Counseling Checklist (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/private-student-loan-counseling-checklist).

Other Loan Funds
GW has several emergency loan funds for degree students with short-term needs. These funds include:
• Jessie B. Martin Loan Fund
• Barney Plotnick, M.D., Student Loan Fund
• University Student Emergency Loan Fund
• Peter and Doris Firsht Loan Fund

For more information and how to apply for emergency loans see the OSFA website (https://financialaid.gwu.edu/emergency-funding).

Student Employment
The University participates in the Federal Work-Study Program (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/work-study). Students should address questions concerning eligibility to OSFA. GW's Center for Career Services (http://careerservices.gwu.edu) handles Federal Work-Study placement and also maintains a registry of both full- and part-time positions available in the DC Metropolitan Area.

International Students
International students are eligible to receive merit scholarship consideration from the Office of Admissions and are automatically considered during the admissions process.

Non-U.S. students should check with their home country for potential national and/or local student aid options for enrollment in the United States.

Visit the U.S. Department of State’s Education USA web-site (https://educationusa.state.gov) for a database of potential resources.

Private education loans for international students are usually only available with a credit-worthy U.S. co-signer. The Office of Student Financial Assistance uses cost of attendance budgets for the processing of international student financial assistance. Details are available on the OSFA website (http://financialaid.gwu.edu).

Military Education Financing
Veterans Education Benefits
GW's Office of Military and Veteran Student Services processes applications for entitlement payments under the various classes of veterans' educational benefits from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. For more information consult the Office of Military and Veteran Student Services website (https://services.military.gwu.edu).

Tuition Assistance Program
Funds from the various branches of the armed services under the Tuition Assistance Program are processed by the GW Student Accounts Office (https://studentaccounts.gwu.edu).

ROTC Scholarships
Navy ROTC (http://nrotc.gwu.edu/scholarships) is available at GW. Army and Air Force ROTC is available at Georgetown University and Howard University, respectively. All ROTC programs are handled by the GW Student Accounts Office (https://studentaccounts.gwu.edu). Further details are available on the Office of Student Financial Aid website (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/military-educational-benefits) and from the Office of the Registrar (http://registrar.gwu.edu/rotc).

Please note that ROTC scholarships must be considered as a resource against any federal student aid eligibility, per federal regulation.

Availability of State Grant Assistance for Undergraduate Education
Before pursuing loan options, undergraduate students are advised to review the potential for state grant assistance from their home state to help finance their GW education. See information from the national Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators (https://www.nasfaa.org/State_Financial_Aid_Programs) on state grant programs.

Satisfactory Academic Progress for Student Financial Assistance
Federal student aid programs require satisfactory academic progress. See OSFA's complete Title IV satisfactory academic progress policy (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/policy-satisfactory-academic-progress).

Availability of U.S. Department of Education Loan Publications
Students pursuing federal student loans are advised to review, download, and retain the loan publications from the U.S. Department of Education which are available on the Federal Student Aid resources page (https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/resources).

GW Policy on Student Loans and Code of Conduct
GW does not maintain a preferred lender list and will certify loan presented that requires certification. Refer to GW's
HEA-compliant code of conduct for student loans (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/policy-student-loan-code-conduct).

Role of the National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS)
Data on federal student loans and Federal Pell Grants are reported to the National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS), which is accessible by GW and U.S. Department of Education personnel and servicers of federal student loans. Students can access their data on the NSLDS website (https://www.nslds.ed.gov/nslds/nslds_SA).

Title IV Eligibility and Drug Convictions
Under federal law a recipient of Title IV student financial assistance who is convicted for possession and/or sale of illegal drugs while enrolled as a student at GW will be ineligible for further Title IV funds for a fixed period of time. Refer to the University’s complete policy on the Impact of Drug Conviction on Title IV eligibility (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/policy-impact-drug-conviction-title-iv-eligibility).

Return of Title IV Funds Policy
The University is required by the HEA to recalculate the eligibility for federal Title IV student financial assistance for students who withdraw, drop out, are dismissed, or take a leave of absence, prior to completing 60% of a semester. Title IV funds include Federal Pell Grants, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, Federal Work-Study, Federal Perkins* Loans, Federal Direct Subsidized Stafford Loans, Federal Direct Unsubsidized Stafford Loans, and Federal Direct PLUS Loans.

GRADUATE

Graduate Financial Aid

The George Washington University offers a variety of financial support for graduate students that includes assistantships, fellowships, traineeships, graduate school scholarships, research appointments, and part-time employment, in addition to eligibility for Federal student aid programs.

Several forms of aid not based on financial need are available. Graduate assistantships are fully taxable, and gift aid (scholarships, grants, fellowships, assistantships, tuition awards, etc.) is taxable to the extent that it exceeds the allowable costs of tuition, fees, and required books and supplies or is dedicated to other costs, such as room and board. Federal grants may be taxable if, together with other gift assistance, they exceed the allowable costs. For complete information on IRS rules regarding educational costs, see IRS Publication 970, Tax Benefits for Education.

Eligibility for student aid is processed under cost of attendance budgets for various categories of students, per requirements of federal statute. See the Office of Student Financial Assistance (OSFA) policy on cost of attendance budgets (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/cost-of-attendance) for details. A complete student aid package cannot exceed a student’s cost of attendance budget. GW will review and potentially adjust awards for students receiving student financial assistance from more than one source. Receipt of student financial assistance from multiple source cannot exceed tuition charges. If institutional aid is involved, adjustments will be made.
Application and correspondence concerning assistantships, fellowships, traineeships, or graduate scholarships should be sent directly to the GW school or college. Unless otherwise specified, applications and supporting credentials should be submitted no later than the February 1 prior to the academic year for which the award is made. Application for admission to graduate study is a prerequisite for consideration.

Office of Graduate Student Assistantships and Fellowships

The Office of Graduate Student Assistantships and Fellowships (http://www.gwu.edu/~fellows) provides services to entering and enrolled graduate students; detailed information on awards that may be used in support of graduate study is available on the office’s website. Such awards generally are sponsored by foundations, professional and learned societies, industries, and other organizations. Services are provided to entering and enrolled graduate students.

Assistantships

Available to students in masters and doctoral programs in most academic departments, graduate assistantships provide financial compensation for a designated unit of service to the assistant’s major department of instruction. All new graduate assistants must attend an orientation program and will be enrolled in an online course.

International students applying for graduate teaching assistantships must have minimum TOEFL scores of 600 (paper-based) or 100 (Internet-based) or an overall band score of 7.0 on the Academic International English Language Testing System (IELTS) with no individual band score below 6.0. International students may be appointed to graduate assistantships. Those found to have difficulties with English will be referred to the Speech and Hearing Center’s speech enhancement program; such students will be assigned nonteaching duties in place of classroom instruction and will be re-evaluated each semester. If a student is not designated as qualified to give classroom instruction by the end of one academic year, the assistantship will not be renewed.

Graduate Research Assistantships

Available to students in masters and doctoral programs in some GW academic departments. A graduate research assistant receives compensation for research assistance provided to a professor.

Resident Assistantships

Resident assistantships are available to graduate students in any field of study who are interested in working in University residence halls. Specific duties vary with the position, but basically consist of counseling, advising student groups, and administrative duties. Remuneration includes salary and a furnished room for the academic year. All positions are part time, and staff members are required to enroll as full-time students in degree programs. For further information, see the Center for Student Engagement website (http://studentengagement.gwu.edu/resident-advisors).

Fellowships, Scholarships, and Related Programs

University Fellowships

Available to graduate students in masters and doctoral programs in most GW academic departments. Fellowships are based on scholarship and each fellow may receive a stipend and/or tuition allowance.

Graduate and professional students can borrow up to $20,500 in unsubsidized Federal Direct Stafford Loan funds on an annual basis. Some academic programs may have additional loan eligibility; see the list on the OSFA website of Graduate Programs eligible for Higher Loan Limits (https://financialaid.gwu.edu/graduate-federal-direct-loan-limits).

Graduate and professional students have maximum aggregate (lifetime) loan limits of $138,500, with $65,500 maximum subsidized limit within the total aggregate limit. Health professions students have a maximum aggregate (lifetime) limit of $224,000, with $65,500 maximum subsidized limit within the total aggregate limit.

Loan Fees

Federal Perkins Loans

Federal Perkins Loans (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/federal-perkins-loan) are loans made to students with “exceptional financial need,” as required by federal statute, based on availability of funds to lend from collections of past loans made. The interest rate is 5% fixed and there is a ten-year repayment period.

Annual and Aggregate Loan Limits for Federal Perkins Loans

The annual loan limit for Federal Perkins Loan is $5,500 per year and the lifetime limits for Perkins are $27,500 for undergraduates and $60,000 for combined undergraduate and graduate studies. Loan funds awarded are limited based on availability of funds to lend.

Private Education Loans

Private lenders provide additional loan options to qualified students. These loans offer varying interest rates and repayment options. Such loans allow the student to borrow up to 100% of GW’s annual cost of attendance less any current financial assistance. They typically have variable rates, rates within rate tiers according to credit worthiness, and application fees.

Private education loans must be reported to OSFA to be considered as a resource against federal student aid eligibility, per federal regulation.

Students are strongly advised to consider federal student loans before alternative loans due to generally more favorable interest rates, fees, and repayment options. Consider reviewing the OSFA Private Student Loan Counseling Checklist (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/private-student-loan-counseling-checklist).

Other Loan Funds
GW has several emergency loan funds for degree students with short-term needs. These funds include the Jessie B. Martin Loan Fund; the Barney Plotnick, M.D., Student Loan Fund; the University Student Emergency Loan Fund; and the Peter and Doris Firsht Loan Fund. For more information and how to apply see the section of OSFA’s website on emergency loans (https://financialaid.gwu.edu/emergency-funding).

Student Employment
The University participates in the Federal Work-Study Program (https://careerservices.gwu.edu/federal-work-study-program). Students should address questions concerning eligibility to OSFA. GW’s Center for Career Services (https://careerservices.gwu.edu) handles Federal Work-Study placement and maintains a registry of both full- and part-time positions available in the DC Metropolitan Area.

TEACH Grants
The Teacher Education Assistance for College and Higher Education (TEACH) program provides grants to students who become teachers in high-need fields and low-income areas in an elementary school, secondary school or an educational service agency. More information on TEACH Grants (https://gsehd.gwu.edu/admissions/#tuition-and-scholarships) is available from the Graduate School of Education and Human Development (GSEHD).

International Students
International students are advised to download and reference The Office of Graduate Scholarships and Fellowships brochure, Funding for International Students (http://graduate.admissions.gwu.edu/sites/graduate.admissions.gwu.edu/files/downloads/International%20Funding%20Brochure.pdf), a guide for international students on potential education funding.

Non-US students should check with their home country for potential national and/or local student aid options for enrollment in the United States.

Private education loans for international students are usually only available with a credit-worthy U.S. co-signer.

Please note that the Office of Student Financial Assistance uses cost of attendance budgets (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/cost-of-attendance) for the processing of international student financial assistance.

Deadlines
Graduate students applying for federal student aid must have respective application materials submitted by specific dates per academic term. See OSFA’s website (https://financialaid.gwu.edu/deadlines) for complete details on application deadlines.

ROTC Scholarships
Navy ROTC (http://nrotc.gwu.edu/scholarships) is available at GW. Army and Air Force ROTC is available at Georgetown University and Howard University, respectively. All ROTC programs are handled by the GW Student Accounts Office (https://studentaccounts.gwu.edu). Further details are available here (http://financialaid.gwu.edu/military-educational-benefits) and from the Office of the Registrar (http://registrar.gwu.edu/rotc).

Please note that per federal regulation ROTC scholarships must be considered as a resource against any federal student aid eligibility.

The U.S. Department of Education (ED) maintains a website listing state agencies (http://www2.ed.gov/about/contacts/state) and respective contact information. The Brookings Institution has an Inventory of State Grants (http://www.brookings.edu/~/media/research/files/reports/2012/5/08-grants-chingos-whitehurst/inventory-of-state-grants.xlsx) (done in 2012) as well.
