

MASTER OF PUBLIC HEALTH IN THE FIELD OF HEALTH PROMOTION

Program Director: B. Bingenheimer

Students in the master of public health (MPH) in health promotion program learn to use proven social and behavioral theory and behavior change models and strategies to improve health behaviors and practices for a variety of populations. They acquire the skills to plan, design, implement, evaluate, and communicate programs and research targeted toward health promotion and disease prevention for the public.

The program is designed to prepare individuals to become responsible and productive public health professionals, capable of assessing, implementing, managing, and evaluating health promotion and health education programs for the public and for at-risk populations. Through required courses and electives, students are trained in social and behavioral approaches and applications for improving public health via interventions at the individual, group, organizational, and societal levels.

The health promotion program explores how best to advocate for social practices, policy, and law that provide supportive environments for the improvement of public health. Students put their knowledge into practice, both in the classroom and in the field. With courses scheduled in the late afternoons and early evenings, the programs allow students to obtain valuable career experience while they earn their degree.

Visit the program website (<http://publichealth.gwu.edu/programs/health-promotion-mph/>) for additional information.

ADMISSIONS

Deadlines: Fall - March 15 (Applications must be complete by December 15 for priority scholarship consideration.)

Spring - October 1

Summer - December 15

Individuals interested in applying to this program should submit their application and supporting documents through SOPHAS, a general online application for schools of public health. A graduated fee is charged for this application, depending on the number of accredited schools to which you apply.

Standardized GRE general test (institutional code 5268).
test scores:

Applicants may also submit the LSAT, MCAT, or GMAT instead of the GRE.

Applicants who already have a conferred graduate degree (i.e. MA, MS, JD) are exempt.

Recommendations: Two (2) recommendations required:

Prior academic records: Transcripts required from all colleges and universities attended, whether or not credit was earned, the program was completed, or the credit appears as transfer credit on another transcript. Transcripts must be forwarded to SOPHAS in their original sealed envelopes directly from the institution.

Official transcripts from institutions outside the United States must be accompanied by an official transcript evaluation from an accredited independent evaluating agency. Please be sure you request a detailed evaluation that includes all course titles, credit hours, grade-point average (GPA), United States degree equivalency, and date of degree conferral. Please see the list of acceptable foreign credential evaluation services.

Statement of purpose: In no more than 1500 words, state your purpose in undertaking graduate study in your chosen field. Include your academic objectives, research interests, and career plans. Also discuss your related qualifications, including collegiate, professional, and community activities, and any other substantial accomplishments not already mentioned on the application.

The Committee reviews your Statement of Purpose to determine your motivation for pursuing a career in public health.

International applicants only: Please review International Applicant Information carefully for details on required documents, earlier deadlines for applicants requiring an I-20 GW, and English language requirements. Detailed documentation needed for this program is available here.

PLEASE NOTE that all programs in the Milken Institute School of Public Health require the following minimum English language test scores for admission:

- Academic IELTS: an overall band score of 7.0 with no individual band score below 6.5.

- TOEFL: 100 on Internet-based.

Supporting documents not submitted online should be mailed to:

Office of Admissions
Suite 200
Milken Institute School of Public Health
950 New Hampshire Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20052
