

MINOR IN AFRICANA STUDIES

The minor in Africana studies is a highly flexible program that pairs well with anthropology, history, political science, women's, gender and sexuality studies, and much more. Students in the minor build an academic foundation in the cultural, political and intellectual experiences of people of African descent in the Americas, Caribbean, Europe, and Africa.

Visit the program website (<https://africanastudies.columbian.gwu.edu/minor-africana-studies/>) for more information.

REQUIREMENTS

Code	Title	Credits
------	-------	---------

Required

AFST 1001	Introduction to Africana Studies
-----------	----------------------------------	--

Electives

18 credits in courses to be selected in consultation with the program director.