MASTER OF FINE ARTS IN THE FIELD OF FINE ARTS

The master of fine arts (MFA) program at GW comprises a two-year commitment for emerging artists who wish to expand the material and intellectual dimensions of their work. The interdisciplinary nature of the program creates an environment where cross-pollination among fields flourishes. At the same time, graduate students enter into vibrant communities of peers, faculty, and visiting artists, where intensive studio visits and critiques facilitate the re-imagination of the boundaries of art practice.

The MFA program in the Studio Arts Program is a 60 credit, full-time program. Students register for 15 credits per semester, per the standard recommended for a terminal degree by the College Art Association.

Visit the program website (https://corcoran.gwu.edu/fine-arts/) for additional information.
