MASTERS OF ARTS IN THE FIELD OF HISTORY

Students delve into history with George Washington University’s world-renowned scholars. The program’s proximity to some of the most important research repositories in the world—the National Archives, the Folger Shakespeare Library, the National Security Archive, and the Smithsonian museums—makes GW an ideal place to examine a variety of fields, from Renaissance Europe to the Cold War, and from imperial and colonial studies to modern American political and social history. Because the programs are relatively small, students work closely with faculty and graduate with the knowledge, analytical tools and writing skills for a range of professions.

The MA program offers students the opportunity to focus on an area of their choice. Alternatively, students may opt to specialize in one of the departments' concentrations: History and Public Policy; Imperial and Colonial Studies; and US Legal History. The program prepares students for PhD work and careers that range from teaching high school, working for the government, or conducting research within the private sector.

ADMISSIONS

Admission deadlines:
- Fall - April 1 (February 1 for fellowship consideration)
- Spring - October 1

Standardized test scores: GRE general test is not required.

Academic requirements:
- Transcripts are required from all colleges and universities attended, whether or not credit was earned, the program was completed, or the credit appears as transfer credit on another transcript. Unofficial transcripts from all colleges and universities attended must be uploaded to your online application. Official transcripts are required only of applicants who are offered admission. If transcripts are in a language other than English, English language translations must be provided. The English translation alone should be uploaded into your application.

Statement of purpose: In an essay of 250 - 500 words, state your purpose in undertaking graduate study in your chosen field. Include your academic objectives, research interests, career plans, and the GW faculty member(s) with whom you anticipate working. Also discuss your related qualifications, including collegiate, professional, and community activities, and any other substantial accomplishments not already mentioned on the application.

Additional requirements: All applicants must submit a recent writing sample (research paper preferred) of 10 - 30 pages in length. Please see the suggestions on what to include in your writing sample (https://history.columbian.gwu.edu/graduate/). International applicants should review International Applicant Information (https://columbian.gwu.edu/international-graduate-applicants/) carefully for details on required documents, earlier deadlines for applicants requiring an I-20 or DS-2019 from GW, and English language requirements.

Supporting documents not submitted online should be mailed to:

Columbian College of Arts and Sciences - Office of Graduate Studies
The George Washington University
801 22nd Street NW, Phillips Hall 107
Washington DC 20052
