MASTER OF ARTS IN THE FIELD OF FORENSIC PSYCHOLOGY

The Forensic Psychology program offers two tracks: Applied Forensics, which prepares students for careers in law enforcement or homeland security; and Applied Psychology, which prepares students for careers as providers of direct services to clients in organizations such as correctional facilities and community action organizations and can serve as a springboard for clinical work at the doctoral level. Students are required to complete 250 hours of externship training, tailored to their professional interest. Day, evening and weekend classes are offered to accommodate both full-time students and working professionals.

Visit the program website (https://forensicpsychology.columbian.gwu.edu) for additional information.

ADMISSIONS

Admission deadlines:
- Fall - February 1: Priority consideration for admission and funding; April 1: Guaranteed review for admission and consideration for funding, if available. (Applications for admission will continue to be accepted after April 1, when space remains available in the program.)
- Spring - Applications are reviewed on a rolling basis beginning in August, with a final deadline of October 1.

Applications submitted after the deadlines indicated above will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

Standardized test scores:
- GRE general test (institutional code 5246). Waived for applicants who hold a JD, MD, or PhD.
- The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL), the academic International English Language Testing System (IELTS), or the PTE Academic is required of all applicants except those who hold a bachelor’s, master’s, or doctoral degree from a college or university in the United States or from an institution located in a country in which English is the official language, provided English was the language of instruction.

Minimum scores for the program are:
- Academic IELTS: an overall band score of 6.0 with no individual score below 5.0; or
