

GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN REGULATORY POLICY AND PRACTICE

The graduate certificate in regulatory policy and practice explores the multi-layered world of regulatory policy, practice, and theory. Through comprehensive coursework, students:

- Examine the approaches by which regulatory agencies develop and implement policy, including rulemaking, adjudication, and enforcement.
- Explore the political landscape in which regulations are developed and implemented in different regulatory contexts.
- Study the mechanisms by which advocates and stakeholders sway the regulatory process.
- Develop the analytical tools necessary for identifying and measuring the likely effects of alternative regulatory approaches.
- Investigate the justifications—legal, economic, social, environmental, and other—for regulatory intervention in particular policy contexts.

This certificate is ideally suited for those interested in formulating regulatory policy as policy analysts in the executive and legislative branches at any level of government or influencing regulatory matters in the nonprofit or private sectors. Some students in the program seek to expand their knowledge without wishing to commit to a master’s degree program. Others can use it as a springboard for other degree programs, especially the master of public administration (<https://tspppa.gwu.edu/master-public-administration/>) (MPA) and master of public policy (<http://bulletin.gwu.edu/arts-sciences/public-policy-administration/mpp/>) (MPP).
