MASTER OF SCIENCE IN THE FIELD OF INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

The Department of International Business in the GW School of Business has built a widely respected reputation throughout academia and, more importantly, throughout the international business community. The master of international business degree program is built on that solid reputation along with a broad and cohesive curriculum and a transformative study-abroad component. Students in the program complete two consulting courses, one working with a client overseas, and the other with an international organization in Washington, DC. Students also participate in a professional seminar that includes resume, interview, and technical skills workshops, as well as advice sessions from employers and alumni.

The MS in international business program instills in students the knowledge and expertise needed to keep pace with the constantly changing global business environment, and allows graduates to do so in a setting that is multicultural to its core. A broad selection of elective courses gives students the flexibility to tailor their degree to emphasize their specific career interests.

Visit the program website (https://business.gwu.edu/ms-international-business/#MSIB-admissions) for additional information.
