

GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN TRANSITION SPECIAL EDUCATION

SPED 6255

Collaboration with Diverse Youth, Families, and Stakeholders

Empower youth to lead a better future by earning your Graduate Certificate in Transition Special Education from George Washington University. Participants will gain the required knowledge, skills, and competencies to assist youth and young adults with disabilities as they transition to postsecondary opportunities. In the special education transition certificate program, participants will focus on social justice as they join a community of transition leaders from across the country, learning to design and implement transition programming to help ensure the success of youth as they transition to adult life.

Visit the program website (<https://gsehd.gwu.edu/programs/graduate-certificate-transition-special-education/>) for additional information.

ADMISSIONS

Program Spring, Summer, Fall
Entry:

Prerequisites: Bachelors Degree

Campus: Online

Application -Online Application
Requirements:

-Resume

-Statement of Purpose

-2 Letters of Recommendation

-Transcripts

-Application Fee

For more information on any of these requirements, please visit our Admissions FAQ (<https://gsehd.gwu.edu/admissions-faq/>) page.

REQUIREMENTS

The following requirements must be fulfilled: 12 credits in required courses.

Code	Title	Credits
Required
SPED 6230	Person-Centered Assessment Practices
SPED 6233	Culturally Responsive Curriculum in Special Education
or SPED 6235	Person-Centered Career Development Practices and Outcomes
SPED 6236	Foundations of Transition Discoveries Youth Driven Practice	