MASTER OF ARTS IN THE FIELD OF SECURITY POLICY STUDIES

A master’s degree in security policy studies can open doors to future employment in the security policy institutions of the federal government, in the private sector, in international organizations such as NATO, and in the many nonprofit institutions engaged in security policy work. Security policy studies is a policy-oriented program focusing on international security issues and the policy responses to those issues, with particular emphasis on emerging transnational threats. These threats include weapons of mass destruction; terrorism; regional and ethnic conflicts; international crime; and the security implications of a globalized economy.

The program also examines the national and international policy responses to these problems, including the operations of the intelligence community, the military, diplomats, and international economic policymakers. The curriculum provides a strong grounding in the national security and defense policy-making process. Students choose from four specific concentrations: U.S. national security; transnational security; conflict resolution; and science and technology. The program also offers students the option of completing their MA degree fully online with a concentration in U.S. national security only.

Students also have the option of emphasizing a particular geographic region—such as East Asia, the Middle East, or Latin America—by taking elective courses with a regional focus. Program faculty include internationally recognized authorities in defense policy and resources, foreign policy, the national security policy process, and regional and transnational security issues. In addition, the program includes an outstanding array of adjunct faculty drawn from the many research institutions and policy organizations in the nation’s capital.

 Language proficiency requirement

Students may fulfill this requirement in one of the following ways:

• Having earned a minimum grade of B in a sixth-semester university-level advanced language course completed no more than three years prior to matriculation in the Elliott School’s master’s degree program.
• Having earned a minimum grade of B in a sixth-semester university-level advanced language course at GW, or in an approved course taken at another institution of higher learning, including Elliott School exchange partner institutions, while enrolled in the Elliott School master’s program.

• Passing the Elliott School-administered language proficiency reading and speaking examination at the currently-required level of proficiency (https://elliott.gwu.edu/foreign-language-proficiency-requirement/). The Elliott School administers language proficiency examinations once in the fall and once in the spring semesters. Students should plan to take the language proficiency examination as soon as possible following their matriculation in the program. Students have three opportunities to pass the examination. Failure to pass the examination for a third time results in dismissal from the program.

• Achieving the required proficiency level in a reading and speaking examination administered by an Elliott School-approved language assessment institution, at the student’s expense, while enrolled in the Elliott School’s Master’s Degree Program.

• Demonstrating the required language proficiency level in a foreign language professional skills course offered through the Elliott School. The instructor tests the student during the course (https://elliott.gwu.edu/foreign-language-proficiency-requirement/) to determine if the required proficiency level has been achieved.

*Specific subject matter covered in special/selected topics courses varies by semester. Consult the Schedule of Classes (http://my.gwu.edu/mod/pws/) for each semester’s offerings. Topics courses not listed here may, with permission of the Program Director, be used to fulfill program requirements.

Additional information regarding skills courses (https://elliott.gwu.edu/professional-skills-courses/), the capstone (https://elliott.gwu.edu/global-capstone/), and the thesis (https://elliott.gwu.edu/thesis/) is available on the Elliott School website.
