MASTER OF PROFESSIONAL STUDIES IN THE FIELD OF POLITICAL MANAGEMENT

Program Director: T. Belt

The master’s degree in political management prepares students to be successful in meeting their goals, influencing the political process, and making a positive difference in their communities, whether it be at the local, state, national, or international level.

The program curriculum guides aspiring political professionals to take their place in the emerging profession of politics. Students have opportunities to get outside the classroom and gain hands-on professional experience that they can apply immediately in their careers. They learn the strategy, tactics, and ethical principles needed for success.

The degree may be tailored to a student’s specific career goals. Optional focus areas include advocacy politics, electoral politics, and advanced political skills. Alternatively, students can work with their faculty advisor to select courses from several areas that meet individual aspirations. In addition, the program is offered with a concentration in global politics.

Classes may be completed on campus, meet Monday through Thursday evenings on GW’s main campus in Foggy Bottom. The program also may be completed online or in a hybrid format. The program can be completed in as little as one year; however, students typically take two courses each semester, and finish in 18 months to two years.

Visit the program website (https://gspm.gwu.edu/political-management/) for additional information.

Prior academic records: Transcripts are required from all colleges and universities attended, whether or not credit was earned, the program was completed, or the credit appears as transfer credit on another transcript. Unofficial transcripts from all colleges and universities attended should be uploaded to your online application. Official transcripts are required only of applicants who are offered admission.

Transcripts from institutions outside the United States must be accompanied by an official transcript evaluation from an accredited independent evaluating agency. Please be sure you request a detailed, course-by-course evaluation that includes all course titles, credit hours, grade-point average (GPA), United States degree equivalency, and date of degree conferral. Please see the list of acceptable foreign credential evaluation services: https://www.naces.org/members/.

Statement of purpose: In an essay of 250-500 words, state your purpose in undertaking graduate study in this field and describe your academic objectives, research interests, and career plans. Also, discuss your related qualifications, including collegiate, professional, and community activities, as well as any other substantial accomplishments not already mentioned on the application form.

Additional requirements: A resumé.

International applicants only: Please review International Applicant Information (https://www.cps.gwu.edu/international-student-admissions/) carefully for details on required documents, earlier deadlines for applicants requiring an I-20 or DS-2019 from GW, and English language requirements.

COURSES

Explanation of Course Numbers

- Courses in the 1000s are primarily introductory undergraduate courses
- Those in the 2000s to 4000s are upper-level undergraduate courses that also may be taken for graduate credit with permission and additional work assigned
- Those in the 6000s and 8000s are for master’s, doctoral, and professional-level students
- The 6000s are open to advanced undergraduate students with approval of the instructor and the dean or advising office

PMGT 1000. Dean’s Seminar. 3 Credits.

PMGT 4101. Electoral and Legislative Processes. 3,4 Credits.

PMGT 4102. Washington, DC, and the Past, Present, and Future of American Democracy. 3-4 Credits.

Introduction to the U.S. capital’s culture, history, and politics, exploring how it has been depicted in literature, art, and film and why many people see it either as a corrupt swamp or a place of idealism, hope, and public service.
PMGT 4107. Research Practicum. 3-4 Credits.
Students conduct original research in the study of the political system of the United States on a subject of their choosing. Restricted to students in the Semester in Washington program.

PMGT 4109. Special Topics. 3-4 Credits.
This course will examine the national campaigns unfolding in real-time in the summer of 2024 through several lenses: the rise of misinformation; the toxic tone of social media; campaign funding; conspiracy theories; and the January 6 insurrection.

PMGT 4187. Professional Internship. 3-4 Credits.
 Faculty-led career advancement opportunity in which students learn to apply theoretical knowledge in an authentic work environment.

PMGT 4192. Tutorial in American Electoral and Political Movements. 3-4 Credits.

PMGT 4200. Civics and Presidential Leadership. 3-4 Credits.
Students engage in a targeted study of civics, democracy, the presidency, and U.S. history. By examining the nation’s history and engaging its leaders, students are empowered to become models of informed citizenship in local and national communities.

PMGT 6401. Fundamentals of Political Management. 3 Credits.
Main concepts, arenas, developments, roles, and practices in the field of political management. Assess rhetorical situations, write strategy memos, create and critique campaign messages, and engage citizens, professional colleagues and decision-makers. Taken in first semester of program. (Professors M. Cornfield and TBD.)

PMGT 6402. Applied Political Communications. 3 Credits.
Models and methods by which professionals plan, produce, and adjust strategic communication messages in democratic politics. Use a variety of communication forms and media, such as, fact sheets, blog posts, video releases, and public addresses, under typical constraints of time, money, information, reputation, talent, audience attentiveness, and institutional procedure. Students to enroll by their sixth course in the program. Core requirement. Must be completed before a student reaches 18 credits.

PMGT 6403. Political Data and Analytics. 3 Credits.
Introduction to the uses of quantitative data and statistics in politics. Learn to evaluate research designs, statistical associations, causal reasoning, methods for hypothesis testing, multivariate regression analyses, and data analytics. Consume and critique data and statistics for strategic purposes. Students to enroll by their sixth course in the program. Core requirement. Must be completed before a student reaches 18 credits.

PMGT 4104. Principled Political Leadership. 3 Credits.
Theory and practice of ethically grounded political leadership. Consideration of the recurrent dilemmas, philosophical principles, management techniques, codes of conduct, and professional norms in the political management field. Application through self-assessment exercises, case study analysis, and individual and group simulations. Students to enroll by their sixth course in the program. Core requirement. Must be completed before a student reaches 18 credits.

PMGT 6410. Grassroots Engagement. 3 Credits.
Strategies and techniques to build advocacy support among and across general civic populations. Identification of potential supporters through database targeting and individual outreach. Motivation and training of interested supporters for grassroots action in campaigns, at public forums, and before decision-makers. Coalition and protest options; analytics of ongoing efforts. (Professors E. Grefe, S. Gagen)

PMGT 6412. Issues Management. 3 Credits.
Track, influence, and alter politically significant issue-related discourses and policy developments. Legislative, executive, and judicial venues and processes for policymaking; state referendum, initiative, and recall ballot opportunities; organizational structures, including digital procedures, for issue management. (Professors M. Edwards, E. Grefe)

PMGT 6414. Lobbying. 3 Credits.
Survey of and training for lobbying in the U.S. federal system. Students design a detailed lobbying plan for implementation and practice a variety of influence techniques, including those associated with digital media and communications technologies. Legal compliance, organizational and public accountability, professional standards and practices. (Professor J. Hobson)

PMGT 6416. International Lobbying. 3 Credits.
Survey of international lobbying practices, analysis of strategic models and best practices in a variety of different countries and political systems (e.g., EU, China, Brazil, and Turkey). Trends and innovations in lobbying techniques and communications technologies. Investigation and application of appropriate research to improve practice. (Professor TBD by AGE program) (Same as PSAD 6240)

PMGT 6420. Corporate Public Affairs. 3 Credits.
Exploration of major functional areas in corporate public affairs with a focus on the political and policy dynamics operating in the United States and other democracies.
