DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN THE FIELD OF GLOBAL PUBLIC HEALTH SCIENCES

Program Director: E. R. Smith

The doctor of philosophy program in global public health sciences seeks to educate the upcoming generation of research leaders in diverse public health disciplines that affect the global community. Working with specialized and advanced methodologies, doctoral candidates use innovative thinking to translate science into real-world applications and work within multidisciplinary and interprofessional settings to research global public health issues.

Visit the program website (https://publichealth.gwu.edu/content/global-public-health-sciences-phd/) for additional information.

ADMISSIONS

Visit the Milken Institute School of Public Health website (https://publichealth.gwu.edu/) for additional information about academic programs and information about GWSPH.
