MASTER OF ARTS IN THE FIELD OF GLOBAL COMMUNICATION

Offered jointly by GW's Elliott School of International Affairs and Columbian College of Arts and Sciences' School of Media and Public Affairs (SMPA), the master of arts in global communication combines the Elliott School's globally recognized academic excellence in international affairs with SMPA's strengths as a leading school of communication and journalism.

Students in the global communication program learn about the fascinating and rapidly evolving global information environment. As future or advancing professionals in the field, they learn how to work in this environment and communicate effectively with audiences worldwide.

Students take a rigorous academic program that prepares them both intellectually and professionally for exciting careers in the public, private, and nonprofit sectors. A core curriculum focuses on communication, international politics, international economics, and research methods. Required skills courses on topics such as developing communication strategies, cross-cultural communication, public speaking, and editing prepare students for careers in global communication. Students also choose one of twelve specializations to build expertise on a major world region or global issue. In the final year, a capstone course tests students' ability to address a real-world problem using the skills and knowledge acquired during their course of study.

Visit the program website (https://elliott.gwu.edu/globalcommunication/) for additional information.

Electives (9 credits)

9 credits in elective courses relating to international affairs or communication selected with approval of the Program Director. With Program Director approval, graduate students can apply a maximum of 6 credits of language courses toward the electives.

Additional thesis option

Students who wish to complete a thesis do so in addition to the capstone requirement. Students pursuing a thesis must have a minimum GPA of 3.5 and approval from the faculty member who will serve as their thesis director. Thesis students also need to complete at least one research methods course. Thesis credit is counted as elective or specialization credits with Program Director approval. The two 3-credit thesis courses must be taken consecutively.

*Specific subject matter covered in special/selected topics courses varies by semester. Consult the Schedule of Classes (http://my.gwu.edu/mod/pws/) for each semester's offerings. Topics courses not listed here may be used to fulfill program requirements if approved by the Program Director.

Additional information regarding skills courses (https://elliott.gwu.edu/professional-skills-courses/), the capstone (https://elliott.gwu.edu/global-capstone/), and the thesis (https://elliott.gwu.edu/thesis/) is available on the Elliott School website.

Law School courses—Students may, with permission of their advisor, include courses in the Law School (http://www.law.gwu.edu/) in their major field. Enrolling in a LAW course also requires permission of the Law School dean of students. Students should consult the Elliott School's Graduate Student Services (https://elliott.gwu.edu/graduate-academic-advising/) office before enrolling in LAW courses.

PPPA courses—Students may, with permission of the Department of Public Policy and Public Administration, enroll in these courses. If not listed here, program director permission would also be required. Students should consult their academic advisor within the Elliott School's Graduate Student Services office regarding appropriate next steps for enrolling in PPPA courses.

Language proficiency requirement

Students in the master of arts in the field of global communication program are required to demonstrate proficiency in a modern language other than English. Students may fulfill this requirement in one of the following ways:

- Having earned a minimum grade of B in a sixth-semester university-level advanced language course completed no more than three years prior to matriculation in the Elliott School's master's degree program.
- Having earned a minimum grade of B in a sixth-semester university-level advanced language course at GW, or in an approved course taken at another institution of higher learning, including Elliott School exchange partner institutions, while enrolled in the Elliott School master's program.
- Passing the Elliott School-administered language proficiency reading and speaking examination at the currentlyrequired level of proficiency (https://elliott.gwu.edu/foreignlanguage-proficiency-requirement/). The Elliott School administers language proficiency examinations once in the fall and once in the spring semesters. Students should plan to take the language proficiency examination as soon as possible following their matriculation in the program. Students have three opportunities to pass the examination. Failure to pass the examination for a third time results in dismissal from the program.
- Achieving the required proficiency level in a reading and speaking examination administered by an Elliott Schoolapproved language assessment institution, at the student's expense, while enrolled in the Elliott School's Master's Degree Program.
- Demonstrating the required language proficiency level in a language professional skills course offered through the Elliott School. The instructor tests the student during the course (https://elliott.gwu.edu/foreign-language-proficiency-requirement/) to determine if the required proficiency level has been achieved.

As of fall 2018, the above policy applies to new and current students in the Elliott School's non-regional studies master's programs with a language requirement. Consult the Program Director for more information.
